is Lost in Supreme Court

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—The supreme court today declared unconstitutional the Wisconsin "eight hour" law as applied to railroad telegraphers. The opinion says the law is bad, because it is in conflict with the federal "nine to thirteen hour" law. It is held that a state legislature may not enact laws which in effect change federal laws on the same subject, the constitution clothing congress with the right to regulate interstate traffic.

The suit was that of the State of Wisconsin vs. C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co. to determine whether the eight-hour law as applied to railroad telegraphers, known as the Elver law, passed at the last session of the legislature, supersedes the federal law passed several months later, granting a nine-hour day. E. A. McGrath of Milwaukee was compelled to work 12 consecutive hours. Upon complaint of the district attorney, F. E. McGovern, Judge Tarrant held the Wisconsin law valid and his decision indicated that the Wisconsin act superseded the federal law. The railroad appealed, alleging five separate objections: (1) The Wisconsin law interferes with interstate business; (2) It gives the railroad equal protection; (3) It restricts the right to purchase the labor of telegraphers to sell their labor; (4) It is an unreasonable exercise of the police power of the state; (5) It is class legislation, contrary to the constitution.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION AT A GLANCE, SHOWING WHAT BRYAN MUST DO TO WIN THE PRESIDENCY

There are 483 votes in the electoral college. A candidate must have 242 to win. After Bryan carries every state which the Democrats have carried in any of the last three campaigns, as shown by the different shadings, he must still get 29 votes from the Republican territory, represented in pure white on the map, in order to win.

SAYS UPPER MISSISSIPPI AF-FORDS FRUITFUL FIELD

OHIO IS A HARD PROBLEM

The $50,000,000 Government Will

Judge Ray S. Reid, state waterways commissioner, has returned from a 3,200 mile cruise in the Black Beauty, his fast motor boat. He was accompanied by his son, Lucien, and the up the Ohio river. At Cincinnati Lucien left the boat, returning to La Crosse by rail, while Judge Reid stayed on up the river, accompanied by a professional guide, the low stage of water rendering this essential.

"The government has already begun operations under the plan to spend from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 on the establishment of a lock system of transportation on the Ohio," said Judge Reid, "and I saw boys wading the river above Cincinnati without wetting their knees. Already the government has spent $237,000,000 on the Mississippi and its tributaries, and with only $12,000,000 of this immense sum expended on the upper river, exclusive of the rapids—that is, above Davenport—more practical results have been obtained here than in all other operations combined. I believe that our upper Mississippi affords the best and most fruitful field for such work to be found in the country, and I believe that with a tow boat system such as we must eventually come to, our river here as it stands is more valuable as a navigable stream than $50,000,000 can make the Ohio."

TAFT'S BROTHER OIL TRUST AGENT, SAYS A CLEVELAND MAN

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—H. H. Johnson of Cleveland has written to Taft saying that in a suit brought against the Columbia Gas combine for the local stockholders, Chas. P. Taft and others associated with him and representing Standard Oil, were accused of promoting the combination of gas lighting companies in Cleveland and Cincinnati. In that case a violation of the anti-trust law is charged. Johnson says he went to Attorney General Ellis, but was unable to get him to prosecute the case. He asks Taft if, since his brother is closely associated with Standard Oil, he will prosecute the Standard case.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—With the thermometer close to 40 the White Sox and Boston will play a double header this afternoon. Calling the game yesterday in the tenth inning made the double up today necessary. Umpire Kerin, who was assaulted by a fan at the close of the game, will probably be unable to officiate today.

CLOSE DAVIS CASE

OMAHA, Sept. 29.—Davis' attorneys completed the defense today with a dramatic plea to the court to set him free, saying the evidence against him was insufficient to warrant holding him, that the testimony of Mrs. Rice was untrustworthy and closing with a denunciation of the woman and her story regarding Davis.

WHAT BRYAN MUST DO TO BE ELECTED

HENDRICK GIVES THE DOPE ON NATIONAL CAMPAIGN

MUST HOLD OLD STRENGTH

Must Also Get Parker States and Add
29 Electoral Votes to That Grand Total

(By Hendrick.)

The surest way to answer in your own mind the question of whether Mr. Bryan or Mr. Taft is to succeed to the presidency of the United States is to glance at a political map. A number of interesting conclusions will at once strike home to you.

If you are a republican you will find a territorial insurance against the defeat of your candidate which rightfully will give you a cause for legitimate optimism.

If you are a democrat you will recognize the necessity for a most strenuous campaign, which must carry in its victory some states which have not gone democratic since 1892, in the days of President Cleveland.

There are 483 votes in the electoral college. This is seven more votes than were cast in the college of 1904, due to the presence in this campaign of the state of Oklahoma. A majority of the electoral college is necessary to elect a president. Therefore, the winning nominee must carry at least 242 votes. Since the republican party is now in the ascendancy the question of securing the necessary majority must be approached from a democratic standpoint.

In 1904 Parker and Davis received but 140 electoral votes, or 102 votes short of a majority and an election. A glance at the political map, on which these states are shaded in heavy black lines, shows that the democratic vote in 1904 was strictly a southern ballot. It included states which have never gone anything but democratic since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. Therefore a non-partisan observer will readily grant to Mr. Bryan a nucleus of 140 votes as a starter toward his (Continued on page 10.)

TAG TUBERCULOUS CATTLE TO TRACE MEAT TO THE OWNER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 29.—The International Tuberculosis congress began its session today in sections. The first meeting provided Washington's inadequate facilities for large meetings. No hall big enough for all the delegates was found.

One of the principal addresses today was by Dr. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry. He estimated the annual loss in the live stock industry on account of animal tuberculosis at $14,000,000. He declared that live stock owners should be educated to the danger and taught how to combat it through publications and lectures in farmers' institutes. He said each state should require all the cattle brought to it to be examined. A system of tagging, so that tainted animals in the slaughter house can be traced back to owners, should be inaugurated.

MOTHER STEALS FOR HUNGRY BABES—SHOT

LIRRABIE, Ohio, Sept. 29.—Lying on a cot in a hospital and her back riddled with shot, Mrs. Patrick Okeefe, who was wounded while taking corn from the garden of John Stang, told a story of poverty today. She said: "I am no thief, but was I to watch my babies starve to death? No one would give me work, and no one would help me. What I took was for the children and was no crime."

MR. BRYAN REQUESTS COURTESY FOR TAFT

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 29.—Bryan today made arrangements to see that Taft is given courteous treatment at the hands of Lincoln when he speaks here tomorrow. Bryan today telegraphed his brother Charles from Tripp, S. D. "Please have the democrats take down my pictures and show Taft every possible courtesy."

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Judge Franklin Ferris, special commissioner in the hearing of the testimony in suit to oust the Standard from Missouri, will begin the hearing of the evidence for the defense here tomorrow. Other hearings have been held in Cleveland and New York.

OLD STAGERS CAN'T EVEN

WANTS TO "FIRE" SOMEONE

That Is Public Attitude, and Six

(By J. C. Welliver.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—This campaign is taking on the aspect of a duel between two men; a duel of intellect and of personal popularity; a struggle for the verdict which the country will give on election day.

It is unlike other campaigns in that one of the two duellists is a candidate for president, and the other is not. Theodore Roosevelt and William J. Bryan have come forward as the two great, dominating figures in the contest. National chairmen have been forgotten, and the figure of Mr. Taft has been overshadowed by that of the man behind him.

It is plain enough now that the effort to keep the Roosevelt personality out of the fight was hopeless from the beginning. Mr. Roosevelt was the man whom his party wanted as a presidential nominee. It finally named another man when it became assured that Roosevelt did not want the nomination, and when it was certain that he believed Taft the right man to carry forward his policies. The Taft nomination was dictated by Roosevelt, and the Taft campaign is being dominated by Roosevelt.

Rival Heirs to Policies.
It was a polite and gentlemanly campaign in its early stages. Mr. Bryan insisted that he was the heir (Continued on page 9.)

WIFE SOUGHT A DIVORCE

Trailed Ex-Mayor Over State to Secure Evidence on Which to Base Her Suit

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Tracked by his wife, who is securing evidence to justify her suit for divorce, William H. Reynolds, former mayor of Tomah, Wis., was arrested in a room on State street last night in company with Helen Barnes, an Elkhorn, Wis., woman. In municipal court today both were arraigned for a statutory offense, and each pleaded not guilty. They were remanded to jail, in default of furnishing bail in the sum of $200, and will be given a preliminary examination tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Reynolds for some time has been on the track of her husband in the belief that he was consorting with another woman. Mrs. Reynolds has been here for about a week, while her husband arrived a day or two ago and the Barnes woman came from Elkhorn to follow the fair. The wife, learning their whereabouts, secured their arrest.

TOMAH, Wis., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Tomah society has been agitated over the Reynolds case for many months. Mrs. Reynolds alleges her first discovery relating to the conduct of her husband involved a woman high in church circles, and while the matter was not given news-paper publicity, it was generally known that papers in the divorce action had been filed, and that the woman named as co-respondent was one whose association with scandal would shock Tomah's church and social circles. There have been frequent rumors of a settlement of the case, and the clerk of the court and attorneys in the case have carefully guarded the secret as to the details of the incriminating allegations contained in the complaint.

JEROME TO PROBE CLEVELAND LETTER

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Jerome announced today that he would, as requested by the New York Times, investigate the authenticity of the Grover Cleveland letter published by the Times, declaring for Taft, and now said to be a fraud. If the signature is not genuine, Jerome says, it is a clear case of violation of the law and therefore a proper matter for his investigation.

CARLISLE INDIAN FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

Capt. Emil Wauseka at Right

BY COACH WARNER.

If the Carlisle Indians do well upon the gridiron this year, it is hard to see what valid criticisms can be made to belittle their victories, as has been the custom in previous years, and especially last year, when such a brilliant record was made. The only grounds for criticism heretofore has been that Carlisle had no eligibility rules and played men in some instances for more than four years. Since last season the authorities of the school have put eligibility rules into force which prevent any player from being upon the team more than four years, and placing the players under practically the same rules as are in force in the majority of colleges. By reason of these eligibility rules and by graduation the team will lose five of its best players of last year. These are Captain Lubo, right tackle; Exendine, right end; Gardner, left end; Hendricks, right half, and Mt. Pleasant, quarterback. The places left vacant by these men will be filled by substitutes of last season, and one new man, who comes from a western Indian school, and who looks to be good enough for a regular place. The old men who are back are Captain Wauseka, who has played two years as left tackle; Afraid of a Bear, left guard; Little Boy, center; Aiken, right guard; Payne, left half, and Houser, fullback. None of these men have been upon the team but one year, with the exception of Wauseka, who has played two years, and Little Boy, who has played three years.

The schedule is harder than any other team undertakes, and includes games with Penn State, Syracuse, W. U. of Pa., Annapolis, Pennsylvania, Harvard, Minnesota and St. Louis, all played upon the home grounds of the opponents.

Glenn Warner, the old Cornell player and coach, through whose ability and efforts the Indians have reached such a high standard in football, will again act as head coach, and Dr. James E. Johnson, captain of the 1903 Carlisle team, and all-American quarter of that year, will again assist him. Exendine is still a student at the school, and while not eligible to play, he will be able to render valuable assistance in developing ends to fill the vacant places.

With five good men lost from last year, the prospects cannot be said to be bright, and it will probably not be possible for the Indians to duplicate last season's remarkable record. However, a creditable team will probably be turned out, and composed of players whose amateur status and eligibility cannot be questioned.

By defeating Philadelphia, New York retained the lead in the pennant race. A batting rally in the ninth gave the locals a clean cut victory 7 to 6 but it was a heart breaking at a critical moment. The visitors tied the score and ran ahead of New York in the seventh inning and things began to look bad for the Giants. In the ninth inning, however, Shean fell in trying to get Bresnahan's pop fly and Bresnahan was safe. Donlin then smashed out a three bagger, scoring the catcher. Barry ran for Donlin, who had bruised his leg. Seymour who followed, sent the first ball pitched into deep center, bringing Barry in with the winning run. The teams will play a double header today.

Detroit and Washington of the American league played one of the two games arranged on a field ankle deep in mud and with a near cyclone blowing. The home team bunched hits on Hughes, while Killian was in danger but once. Considering the conditions, the pitching and fielding were of the highest class. The teams will play two games today.

Chicago and Boston played ten long innings to a 2 to 2 tie, the game being called on account of darkness. Chicago took the lead in the opening inning, but Boston came back in the fourth and tied it, and forged ahead again in the seventh only to be overtaken by the locals in their half. Vice Presidential Candidate Sherman occupied a box at the game.

STEIHM JOINS BADGER FOLD

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 29.—Badger followers of football were delighted last night by the appearance of Steihm, the big varsity center, who was out for the first time this fall. Steihm was on the second eleven during practice, with Jack Wilce in his place on the regulars. Barry lined up a team of eligibles and gave them a stiff practice, the men lining up as follows: Rogers and Lowman, ends; Arpon and Irwin, tackles; Prehn and Ruth, guards; Wilce, center; Cunningham, quarterback; Bunker and Richards, halfbacks; and Culver, fullback.

Steihm's eligibility will depend upon on the action of the law school faculty, which may grant him a special examination, although they claim it is against the general rules.

PAPKE-KKELLY BOUT STILL UNDECIDED

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Arrangements for the Papke-Kelly match, which were to have been concluded by this time, are still hanging fire, and unless Harlan Zea, the Milwaukee promoter, states definitely by tomorrow whether or not he will schedule the bout, Manager T. E. Jones of the Papke camp will call off negotiations for the go.

Zea was to have reached the city yesterday, but did not appear. Sylvie Ferrell, representing Kelly, and Jones, on behalf of Papke, waited for him but did not receive even a message. Thereupon Jones said that if there was any hitch in proceedings he preferred to make arrangements for Papke elsewhere.

On account of the recent request of Governor Davidson of Wisconsin for a report from the sheriff on boxing in Milwaukee it is thought that the situation in the Cream City is still doubtful. Although the sheriff is reported to have responded favorably, it is said that a branch of the R. M. C. A. has filed objections to the go, and that until a hearing on both sides is arranged the governor may not take action one way or the other.

WOLGAST FAVORITE IN TONIGHT'S BOUT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 29.—Ad Wolgast, the Milwaukee featherweight, finished training for his twenty-five round battle with Danny Webster at Jim Jeffries' club tonight. He made the weight easily and appeared to be in shape for a tough battle.

The fight fans here like Wolgast and are laying odds of 10 to 8 that he will win from the local boy. The latter's recent victory over Billy Snailham gained him a great many friends here, but Wolgast has performed so well in his training stunts with Maurice Sayers that he has a large following. The battle is creating a whole lot of interest here for it is probable that the winner will be matched with Abe Attell or Owen Moran.

Webster's friends are banking on the fact that he is accustomed to long fights while Wolgast is not. The local boy is a rugged little fellow and his friends here figure that if the battle goes the whole distance he will outlast the Milwaukee lad. The latter says he will get Webster in less than ten rounds. Frank Muikern, Wolgast's hustling manager, has placed a roll of money on his protégé.

THANKSGIVING GAME SPARTA'S

Sparta gets the Sparta-La Crosse high school Thanksgiving day football game this year, as anticipated in The Tribune last night.

CHICAGO.—President Comisky of the White Sox has seating arrangements for 30,000 people at the south side grounds in case the Sox get into the world's championship series.

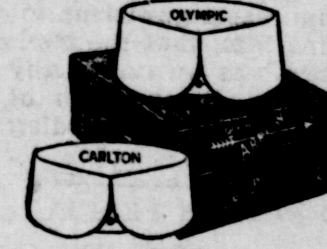

ST. LOUIS.—Happy Harry Howell, the St. Louis spital artist, has ambitions as an operatic singer. It is not known positively, but he will probably try his voice during the coming winter.

BALTIMORE, Md.—Al Herford manager of Joe Gans, will probably assume control once more. Gans likes Herford and negotiations are under way for Herford as Gans intends to go in the ring again.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Moran is now the favorite in the betting on the Moran-Hanlon fight Wednesday.

CHICAGO.—Packie McFarland and Johnny Thompson will both challenge Nelson for the lightweight title.

THE WORLD'S ADVICE

After abusing Bryan before the Denver convention, and damning him with the support of faint praise during the weeks that have elapsed in the campaign, the New York World now indulges in an "I told you so" editorial in which it criticizes Bryan for not having assumed the reactionary end of the issues.

Heaven save Bryan from this fool friend, or rather, from this foe of representative government. The World charges that Bryan armed the president when he urged democrats to support progressive Roosevelt laws that were being blocked by reactionary republicans. That was Bryan, the good citizen. The World blames Bryan for assuming parentage and heirship of Roosevelt progressive policies. That shows the progressiveness of Bryan, the good citizen.

Too bad men like Bryan and Roosevelt must be compelled by partisanship to quarrel over the good they have both done! Too bad the patriotism of our best men is unequal to the task of raising them above partisanship.

Too bad that newspapers like The World, fed by corporate funds, must continue to be published to misdirect and misrepresent popular thought!

THE PETTIGREW INCIDENT

Pettigrew, who has Pettigrewed his way through a maze of public condemnation upon issues mostly local to his own political field, a radical of intense sort, yet a gentleman and a good citizen even his enemies admit, has sprung one on the G. O. P. He says that he was offered $10,000 by the republican campaign organization that elected Roosevelt to make speeches for Watson, socialist candidate. He says the offer was made to draw votes from Parker, and that the man who made it was a United States senator and member of his party's national organization. Moreover, he says that in case the present campaign managers of that party attempt to refute his assertion, he will make the name of the man who made him the offer public.

Well, maybe that will cut some ice. Maybe it won't. The public is getting so used to dirt in political campaigns that it is inclined to grin, and take a bath after election. There are those who believe that Debs' socialistic presidential campaign this year is being financed by the republicans for the same purpose for which Pettigrew says they were willing to finance Watson's campaign four years ago. Nobody knows, and the tendency is toward the belief that there are in all political parties, high up, men who would offer money for such purposes and men who would accept it. Those who love American citizenship will find pleasure in the reflection that Mr. Pettigrew didn't take the money, and that is about the only result the incident is likely to afford.

PLEASED WITH LA CROSSE.

Edw. J. Handcock, publisher of the Brookville (Ind.) American, who was entertained in La Crosse recently as a member of the excursion of the National Editorial association, says in his newspaper:

"A few weeks ago, the writer, on the way from Chicago to St. Paul, Minn., over the Burlington route, to attend the National Editorial association, was with about 150 others from the Editorial special, given an automobile ride over that beautiful city. We were greatly surprised to find it a most beautiful city, well paved and laid out with fine business houses and modern dwellings, some of which excelled those found in much larger cities. Its manufactures were of more than ordinary magnitude and interest and its people were courteous and took great pains in showing us a city in which they have a just pride. A Mr. Deerr drove the auto occupied by the editor of the American, wife and son, and we are greatly indebted to him for courtesies and information. After the ride, the editors and ladies were driven to the Elks' club rooms where most excellent refreshments were served."

HIS OWN MEASURE.

Fourflusher—fourth-rate politician—imposter—czar—ward-heeler—sneak—crook—infamous liar. These terms of approbrium, together with adjectives similarly odious, were applied by Gov. C. N. Haskell to President Theodore Roosevelt at Guthrie, Oklahoma.

If any further evidence were needed to show up the character and caliber of Haskell, this deluge of vulgarity and vituperation would be enough—Free Press.

Yes, the idea! Any man who could use such savage language in response to the velvet-lined chatter and innocuous phraseology of our mollycoddle president would say "d—n" to Fluffy Ruffles. The very moxy of the Oklahoma starting an Ananias Club of his own! Let's see, what did Teddy say to Haskell? Something like "— — —!" (Dashes used out of deference for the postal laws).

A PETTY FRAUD BARED

Some of the petty deceptions of political campaigns—the sort that are too small to lay at the doors of really big men, yet must be charged to one party or the other in a general way—invite contempt from voters irrespective of party affiliation.

An instance of this is the recent letter purporting to have been written by Grover Cleveland just prior to his death, endorsing Taft. This letter was published widely, and much political capital was made of the alleged castigation of Bryan by the dead statesman. That it was published by the direction of the republican organization seems proven by the fact that the organization did not repudiate it.

But now comes the news of what was suspected all along—that the letter was a forgery and a rank fake. The executor of the Cleveland estate is authority for this brand of fraud placed upon the manuscript. An insult to one whose grave was still fresh, a vicious imposture upon the honored dead, nothing possible in political manipulation could invite more utter contempt than this shocking trickery. Friends of Judge Taft will regret that he did not at once deny responsibility for so coarse a performance, one for which no fair man would hold him responsible, one with which no foe could charge him but for his accusing silence when a word would have cleaned the skirts of his party of the shame of it.

In an editorial praising Mr. Bryan's "personality" and deriding his political stand the Milwaukee Like Press says that "there was a lot of talk about campaign publicity and the popular election of United States senators, which are not party issues and are being settled irrespective of party." The republican convention rejected both these policies by a vote of about 9 to 1; the democratic convention adopted both by unanimous vote. What does it take to make anything a "party issue?"

It is to be hoped that some method of demonstrating their allegiance to tariff revision "down" may be afforded the progressive wing of the Wisconsin republican party. To be obliged to vote in confirmation of misrepresentation of itself seems to be the crow the faction must eat, unless its members quietly register their disapproval by secretly bolting at the polls.

Nobody answered anybody's reply today! What's the matter, apathy of public extending to candidates?

SOME OF THE THINGS WANTED.

(Washington Post.)
The people are wide awake now, watching the national campaign with an eye that cannot be deceived. They are demanding more than they ever demanded before. They want publicity of campaign receipts and expenditures—publicity before the election—so that there will be no mortgage on the next administration in the shape of promises to campaign contributors. They want open speech on the issues, frank, flat-footed expressions that cannot be misunderstood. They want all rotten, weak, and dead timber eliminated from the campaign. They want vigor and courage and progress.

A Cough Cure.
"The brilliant and learned Henry Van Dyke of Princeton was discussing the church cough."
"In my boyhood there came to Germantown," he said, "a gentle minister who, the very first Sunday of his incumbency, stopped effectually his coughing congregation."

"It was a congregation, too, singularly addicted to coughing. Rattling volleys of coughs ran over it every few minutes. The minister, indeed, that first Sunday could hardly make himself heard. He had rather a weak voice."
"Well, after his sermon had proceeded for ten or twelve minutes, now audible enough, now drowned under great waves of coughs, he took a resolution; and when the next outbreak was at its height he ceased preaching."

"At once the coughing ceased. There was a profound silence. The minister smiled."
"My friends," said he, "it seems that when I stop you stop."

"From that day in that church they coughed no more."—Washington Star.

No Personal Grudge.
Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott, head worker of Hudson Guild settlement, New York, was lecturing some boys from the water front on the doings of Nero. He gave a vivid picture of the cruelty of the emperor, and thought that he must have fixed the idea of non-ethical deeds in the minds of his hearers. Then he began questions:
"Boys," said the teacher, "what do you think of Nero?"
There was no reply, and the class moved around uneasily.

"Well, O'Brien, what do you think of Nero? Would you say he was a good man? Would you like to know him?"
No answer and O'Brien looked longingly at the door.

"Well, wasn't Nero a bad man?"
"He never done nothin' to me," was the unexpected response, reflecting the Tammany policy of not butting in.—G. W. Wharton in Success Magazine.

During first four years of Jefferson's first term as president the country had prospered beyond precedent. The Louisiana purchase had been perfected, greatly to the satisfaction of the people. The government had been conducted with economy and the national debt had been largely reduced. The national honor had been defended against the Barbary pirates. Jefferson's popularity was at its zenith, and he received as ready a renomination on the republican ticket for president as had Washington the first time. It must still be borne in mind that the republican party of Jefferson was not the republican party of today, but if anything, the democratic party of today.

Jefferson was unanimously renominated in February, 1804, by a caucus of the republican senators and representatives in congress. George Clinton, many years governor of New York state, became his associate on the ticket as the nominee of the republicans for vice president. Clinton had run once before for vice president, being defeated at the time of Washington's second election, by John Adams.

The evidence of the popularity of the republican party and this ticket of Jefferson and Clinton robbed the fast declining federal party of any hope of success. The federalists numbered but a handful and their strength was confined almost entirely to New England. Many of them had vigorously opposed the purchase of Louisiana and had even discussed the withdrawal of the eastern states

SPOTLIGHTS

Woman of the West.

The production of Father Vaughan's play "A Woman of the West," by Annie Mack Berlein, which will appear at the La Crosse theater on Thursday of this week, has been made without regard to cost and is not only one of the largest on the road but at the same time is true to the most correct canons of stagecraft.

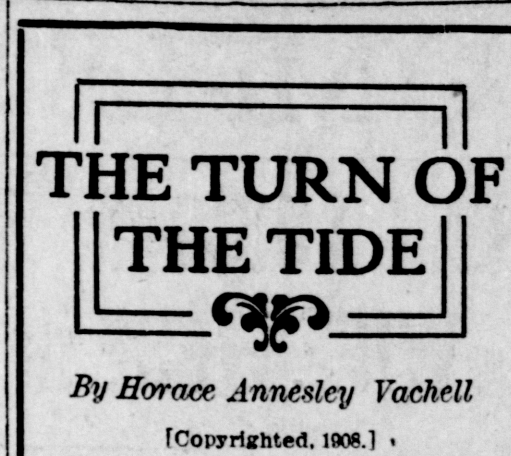

The scenery of this play is a carload, was built from drawings and photographs of the originals. All of the scenes save one are laid in and about a western mining town. One represents the interior and exterior of a miner's cabin. The little street known as Nugget Lane is typical of such streets. The church, the gamblers' joint, the Chinese laundry, the little mountain mission church, all are shown. This scene changes to the interior of the church with its altar decked for the Christmas service and its choir give a touch of color true to the life of such communities. Another scene exemplifying the perfection of the production is that of the inner workings of a gold mine in which the timbering gives way. On its scenic side alone "A Woman of the West" merits the popular approval which has been accorded to this play of the popular author priest. Seats ready tomorrow at 9 a. m. at Miss Larsen's candy store in theater.

A Classic Farce.

Local theater goers will be put under a deep obligation when on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 3, at the La Crosse theater Donald Robertson and his company of players, from the Chicago Art Institute, present the Italian comedy of Goldoni's, "A Curious Mishap." Donald Robertson, now by far the most significant personality on the American stage, and his superb company of associates, have already won lavish praise from the Chicago press for their artistic work in this play. "A Curious Mishap" deserves to be ranked with the work of Moliere in its mellowness of characterization, and gentility of wit and satire. The plot of the play is simple enough, but ingeniously manipulated, and wonderfully well sustained. Monsieur Philibert, a benevolent, fussy, choleric, old gentleman is amazingly resourceful and busy when it comes to forwarding the suit of a young soldier whom he supposes to be seeking the hand of the daughter of another choleric old gentleman he does not like. All the time, however, the soldier is in love with the meddling conspirator's own daughter, and when Monsieur Philibert thinks he is assisting another man's daughter to elope he is really making the way easy for his own child's marriage. The character of the bland, self-satisfied intriguer is disclosed through Mr. Robertson's art in a manner which is deliciously and quaintly droll. While the play, as a whole, is cast in the mould of broad fun, there is a moment of real pathos in its closing scene. It is where old Philibert discovers that he has been completely outwitted by the lieutenant and his own daughter. His moment of apparent triumph is turned by magic into total defeat, and with trembling chin, quivering lips, and moistened eyes, his self-congratulatory chuckles dies away. The adroit artistry with which Mr. Robertson accomplishes this sudden transition is one of those scenes seldom witnessed, and always cherished by the spectator, in their after memories of the theater. Seat sale opens tomorrow.

By Horace Annesley Vachell
(Copyrighted, 1908.)

The question bit deep. The major had spoken with conviction—with finality. He, and innumerable others like him, were Guy's pals now. How had it come to pass? By what imperceptible process had he lost the friendship of the kindly faced Wayfarer and gained instead the patronizing goodwill of this swash-buckler? And if the Wayfarer had asked him to dine, would he have refused?

When he reached his flat, Pixton, his servant, was awaiting him. The man had a pale, wooden, inscrutable face, thin lips, and a pessimistic expression, due to chronic dyspepsia. Pixton came from Saffron Charters, one of Edward's "people," the son, indeed, of the head gamekeeper. Guy had taken him and trained him because he provoked pleasant memories, some of them connected with ferrets. Pixton, once a slip of a lad, now weighed fourteen stone. Guy was never able to determine whether or not Pixton preferred London to Saffron Charters. Whenever he said, in his pleasant, genial voice: "I say, Pixton, don't you wish we were boys again, standing outside the Terrace Wood, on a frosty morning; and bunnies bolting—eh?" always the placid Pixton would reply: "Sometimes I do, Mr. Guy, and sometimes I don't."

As Pixton came forward to help his master out of his overcoat, Guy said lightly: "It's all over, Pixton—thank goodness!"

Pixton replied in ominous tones: "Mr. Edward is here, sir."

"I know."

"And Mrs. Charteris?"

"Mrs. Charteris?" repeated Guy. He looked astonished, but his face grew brighter. Edward's wife had always stood stoutly by him; a true friend; more—a sister. The mere mention of her name made his blood circulate quicker. None the less he was sensible of a shock; he was unprepared to meet this simple, sweet creature; he shrank from taking her kind hand; he wondered if he could return her ingenuous glance. What must she think of him? For the second time that afternoon he tried to picture himself as he appeared to others whose good opinion he had once enjoyed. That confounded Wayfarer, for instance, turned aside, not because there was any taint of the Pharisee in him, but for the unanswerable reason that Guy had changed, not he. Cynthia, too, would never change; the old, pleasant intercourse with her could not be renewed. She would look at him with sympathy and tenderness, with a compassion shining through tears, but she would see the scarlet letter flaming upon his heart, as it flamed upon the dress of Hester Prynne. Why had she come

II.
"I shall speak out. I shall speak out very plainly."
Thus Edward to his wife at the moment when Guy was passing the Wayfarers' Club. Cynthia Charteris nodded, putting out her delicate hands to the fire. She had the air of being slightly chilled as she sat close by the fender, rather huddled up, not at ease as she ought to have been in such a comfortable chair. Edward stood upon the hearthrug, looking down upon her with angry, slightly congested eyes. He very seldom allowed himself the luxury of any excitement.

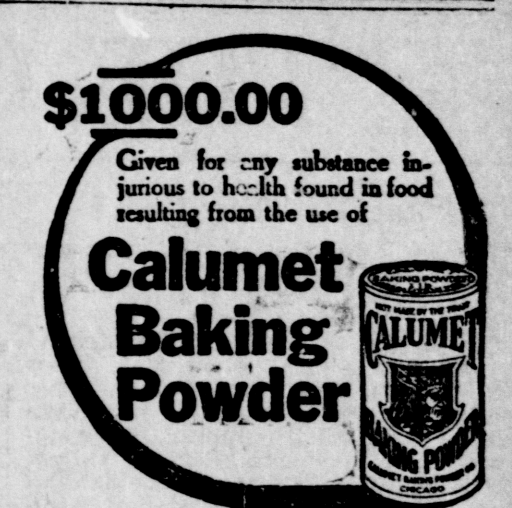

"Will it do any good?" she said doubtfully. She put her hands nearer to the fire as she spoke.
"You are cold. To me this room is simply stifling. It must be over sixty-five degrees."

Mrs. Charteris smiled faintly. Was it worth while to explain that what excited and heated him might well have the contrary effect on her? And, besides, he was the sort of man who could never be made to understand that women register heat and cold in defiance of thermometers. She said nothing, and looked at the room.

Some of the furniture had been of her own choosing, but the finer bits, and the arrangement of the whole, she knew to be the expression of Angela Tempest's unerring taste. Cynthia had persuaded Guy to buy a carpet, a genuine old Ambrosian. What fun they had had haggling over the price with the dealer! In the glazed Chippendale bookcase she could see half a dozen books given to him by her shortly after he left Oxford, and the bookcase itself had been found in a curiosity-shop in Bury St. Edmunds. They had lunched together afterwards at the Angel Inn. Cynthia never bought pretty things for herself, because Saffron Charters was full of furniture, some good, some execrably bad, good and bad alike being sacrosanct to Edward, and standing side by side in Cynthia's eyes of the good and evil in all ancient houses and systems.

There were some frightful gilt cornices in the long saloon, for instance. Cynthia, as a bride, had entreated Edward to take them down. He had refused, not churlishly, but absolutely, on the plea that his mother had placed them there. Most of the silver, too, was of the best Georgian period, but an early-Victorian urn, delectably florid, dominated the breakfast-table. The lady who represented outlying coverts bought it, and the cornices and other solid, indestructible monstrosities. If, poor thing! she was indeed married with no more soul-inspiring motive than to improve the shooting, she truly had her revenge—albeit an unprepared one!

THE COMPLETE NEWS OF THE NORTH SIDE TODAY

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as catarrhal dysentery), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the treatment of all classes of diseases—those regular, weak, nervous, or hysterical, and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nerve. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the breakdown, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines. The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Hazel, the 16-Year-Old "Little Mother" of Others Hopes Her Parents Will Come Home Today

What has become of Louis R. Sundvay and his wife of 1610 Kane street, who left Sept. 19th for Billings, Mont., to take up government land, and who have not been heard from since their supposed arrival there?

Little 16-year-old Hazel Sundvay, the eldest of four children, left at home is bravely promising herself they will return and she expects them today. They should have been here last Sunday, but they failed to come.

Mr. Sundvay who is a machinist at the Burlington shops left with his wife for Billings Sept. 19th for the purpose of taking up a claim. Enroute they mailed several postal cards, one from Galesburg, Ill., and other points where the train stopped conveniently. They promised to send more cards and a letter when they arrived at Billings, but nothing more has been heard from them.

Mrs. Carl Leaser, sister of Mr. Sundvay, had prepared to go to Billings also, but when the time came for her departure the pass she had expected had failed to arrive. She wired to Mr. Sundvay, to be delivered to him when the train he was on arrived at Billings. The message was carried through the train, but the telegraph company reported that no such people were on the train. That was a week ago today. No further word has been received from Mr. Sundvay or his wife, although they had promised to write immediately upon their arrival and to keep the home folks informed of their movements.

Relatives here feared perhaps they met with some accident and that they might have been on board the train which was wrecked at Helena, Mont., last week, in which 21 were killed. This is considered improbable, however, as Helena is beyond Billings, and it is not likely that they were beyond Billings at the time of the wreck. However, they informed relatives here as well as their children that they would go farther than Billings if they could not secure desirable land there, and there is still a possibility that they might have been in the wreck, as they have been in Montana since last Tuesday, although their exact whereabouts has not been known. The wreck occurred several days after their supposed arrival at Billings, and their presence on the wrecked train was possible.

Hazel Sundvay, the 16-year-old daughter who is at home as head of the family of three other little children during the absence of her parents, said today that she expected her papa and mamma back Sunday, but they did not come.

"I think it very strange, that we have not heard from them," said the little girl today. "I feel sure they will come home sometime today, but of course I cannot understand why they have not written to us."

Several friends of Mr. Sundvay also received postal cards from him before he had reached Billings, but it is said none has been received since the time they were scheduled to arrive in the Montana city.

DR. REESE GOES TO LARAMIE, WYO.

Dr. John A. Reese of this city will leave tomorrow for Laramie, Wyoming, where he has accepted a position as physician for one of the large mines in the state. The mine with which he will be connected is located a few miles west of Laramie. He is to succeed Dr. Turner, formerly of this city, as physician for the company.

Dr. Reese is very well known here, having been practicing medicine in La Crosse for the past two years. During his stay here he has made many friends who express regret at his leaving, but who wish him success in his new field.

CHANGE IN TIME OF DUBUQUE TRAINS

A change has been made on a few trains on the Dubuque division, taking effect Sunday morning. Passenger train No. 4 which formerly left the South side depot at 11:59 a. m. now leaves at 12:05 p. m. No. 4 will arrive at Dubuque five minutes earlier than usual at 6:10 p. m.

Freight train No. 62, which left the North side at 8:20 a. m., now leaves at 8:45 a. m., and passenger train No. 25, which formerly arrived at La Crosse at 5:05 now arrives at 5 p. m. This change was made to avoid confusion because trains No. 5 and 25 arrived at the same time on the old time card.

LAYS DOWN TO REST; IT PROVES HIS LAST

Mr. Marvin Matthews, a well known north side resident, died last evening about seven o'clock. Mr. Matthews was up and around yesterday and about two o'clock he laid down and fell asleep. About three o'clock Mrs. Matthews went in to see what Mr. Matthews was doing. When she found him asleep she went about her work. At 5 o'clock she went to call him and found him breathing very heavy. She shook him and could not awaken him and being frightened she called for a doctor, but before the physician came Mr. Matthews had died.

Mr. Matthews was born in the state of Maine 67 years ago and has for the past 35 years resided in this city. He was a carpenter and one of the foremost building men in the early days. Later he has lived in retirement. He is survived by a widow and one son, Robert, residing in Chicago.

Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 the funeral will be held from the residence and burial will take place at the Oak Grove cemetery.

MUCH MARRIED MAN HELD

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—Robert Hu Tung Bosman, a Chinese millionaire, who has been refused permission to enter this country because he has two wives, is today in the German hospital here. J. O. Storey and J. C. Bracher, of Eugene, Oregon, are visiting in the city on business and pleasure combined. When interviewed this morning Mr. Storey said that things in the west are excellent and that the country is recovering rapidly from the financial crisis which bothered the United States last fall. Mr. Storey is enthusiastic over the progress made in the west and predicts a great future for the Pacific coast states. The railroad rates which have been lowered lately have done more than anything else to help the conditions of the west. He says lumber is moving now at a rapid rate and where merchants were shipping three or four cars a short while ago, they are now shipping 100 cars the same as they were a year ago and expect to do even a greater business in the future.

Mr. Storey is now located in Eugene, Oregon, a thriving city of about 12,000, which is growing rapidly and which promises to be one of the big cities of the Pacific coast. Mr. Storey is interested in the street car system in Eugene, and devotes considerable time to real estate and lumber buying.

SHERMAN SATIRE HITS BRYAN AS 'TOYMAKER'

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—James Schoolcraft Sherman, republican nominee for vice president, opened his western tour last night with a speech in Orchestra hall, in which he portrayed William Jennings Bryan as the "toymaker of democracy," dwelling on the issues of the democratic party for the past twelve years with a humor that kept his audience in a gurgling of mirth from start to finish. He outlined in detail the achievements of the republican party in the past half century, threw his listeners into wild enthusiasm by lauding President Roosevelt.

$5 A WEEK ROOSEVELT'S PAY

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 29.—Alvin H. Higgins, vice president and general manager of the Hartford Carpet Corporation at Thompsonville, has no fears that Theodore Roosevelt Jr. will require many years to master the intricacies of the business. Mr. Higgins stated tonight that he expected his prominent apprentice next Thursday, and that he would pay him a weekly salary of $5 or $6. This will be increased as his services become more valuable. The first task of young Roosevelt will be washing, bleaching and spinning raw wool, and for this he will have to don overalls and jumper. He will follow absolutely all the mills' regulations and will be requested to report for work at 7 o'clock in the morning and work hard ten and a half hours every day.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 29.—Temperance people are today making a fight to vote 11 counties dry. Four elections have been already held under the option law, the drys winning each. The anti-saloon forces are making a hard fight. The saloon people are worried over the prospects and are making a desperate effort to check the temperance spread. Feeling is bitter and disturbances are feared.

BISHOP SCHWEBACH AT WAUSAU TODAY

DEDICATES ST. MARY'S HOSPI-TAL THERE

CONTINUES SERVICE TODAY

Class of 170 is Confirmed by La Crosse Prelate; Confirmation at St. Michael's Church Today

The new St. Mary's hospital at Wausau, Wis., was dedicated Sunday afternoon by Rt. Rev. James Schwebach of La Crosse, bishop of the diocese. The hospital was blessed at 3 o'clock by Bishop Schwebach, after which services were conducted with much ceremony, the bishop being assisted by six priests. After the blessing of the chapel the bishop delivered a sermon appropriate to the occasion. The services in the chapel concluded the exercises.

The assisting priests were Fr. Brennan of St. James congregation, Fr. Gasper of St. Mary's congregation, Fr. Silsz of St. Michael's congregation of Wausau, Fr. Daniels of Marathon, and Fr. Basilus, one of the Capuchin fathers of Appleton. Despite the great inclemency of the weather about 200 persons attended the exercises.

Bishop Schwebach administered confirmation to a class of 170 in St. Mary's church Sunday morning, and a class of 101 in St. James' church Monday morning.

The exercises in St. Mary's church Sunday morning consisted of a solemn high mass celebrated at 10 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Basilus, one of the Capuchin fathers of Appleton, delivered the sermon on the day. The bishop administered confirmation after the mass and preached a sermon.

The exercises at St. James' church were practically the same as at St. Mary's. A solemn high mass was celebrated at 10 o'clock at which Rev. Fr. Foster of Eau Claire officiated. Rev. Fr. Wm. Reding of Grand Rapids delivered a sermon on the "Salvation of the Soul." Bishop Schwebach administered confirmation at St. Michael's church this morning.

HILL SNUBBED BY EMPLOYEES

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 29.—This is a sadder but wiser employee in the St. Paul Union station—that is, he is there if James J. Hill is forgiving. The employee was on duty when the Taft party came into the station, looking for the special train, which had not yet been brought under the shed. An aged, gray whiskered man stepped from the group and approached the station employee. "Where's that Taft special train?" he demanded in an authoritative tone.

"Who are you?" was the rejoinder.

"I am Mr. Hill."

"Well, what business is it of yours where the train is?" asked the station employee, who still did not recognize the questioner.

"I am James J. Hill," said the principal owner of the road and director of its destinies; "where's that special—?" but the station agent had "tumbled." He hunted the train.

For the Hard-to-Please

THE man who knows what he wants and who will take nothing short of it—he's welcome here. He's welcome to search, and pick over, and test, and try on, and look for flaws with all his eyes. We'll help him look. Because when we've once convinced a painstaking, particular buyer that our clothes prove genuine quality in every test and comparison, we've made a customer worth having.

We have hundreds of these worth-having customers who have found out for themselves the value of Kuppenheimer Clothes—whose faith is in the Kuppenheimer label because of what it means, not now-and-then, but always.

Under storm clouds or fair weather, the Watershed is unusually good form, good style, good protection. You'd never know it was a rain coat—till it rains.

And quality distinguishes the Watershed, as it does every other Kuppenheimer garment.

Delay is often dangerous as all serious diseases start insidiously. And just as important is it, to have his prescription put up correctly with active and reliable remedies. MRS. MOSHER IS ALSO FINED $25

The last of the cases against the dive keepers arrested last Saturday night ended in county court yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Carrie Sheppard, better known as Mrs. Carrie Mosher, pleaded guilty to the charge of selling liquor to minors and paid a fine of $25 and costs.

As near as can be learned, what was supposed and planned to be a raid that would get evidence to wipe out the various road houses in this territory, was unsuccessful, the officers failing to secure enough evidence to convict the prisoners of a more serious charge than that of selling liquor to minors.

Sokolik of French Island was not arrested, no incriminating evidence having been found against him. Cushman paid a fine for selling to minors and Mrs. Mosher was fined for the same thing while the immoral women were all released.

LEAGUE MEETING CALLED FOR SUNDAY

SALARY LIMIT QUESTION IS MOST IMPORTANT

MADISON TO EXPLAIN CONWAY

Moll Tells Elliott He Has Asked for Information on Protest of La Crosse Association

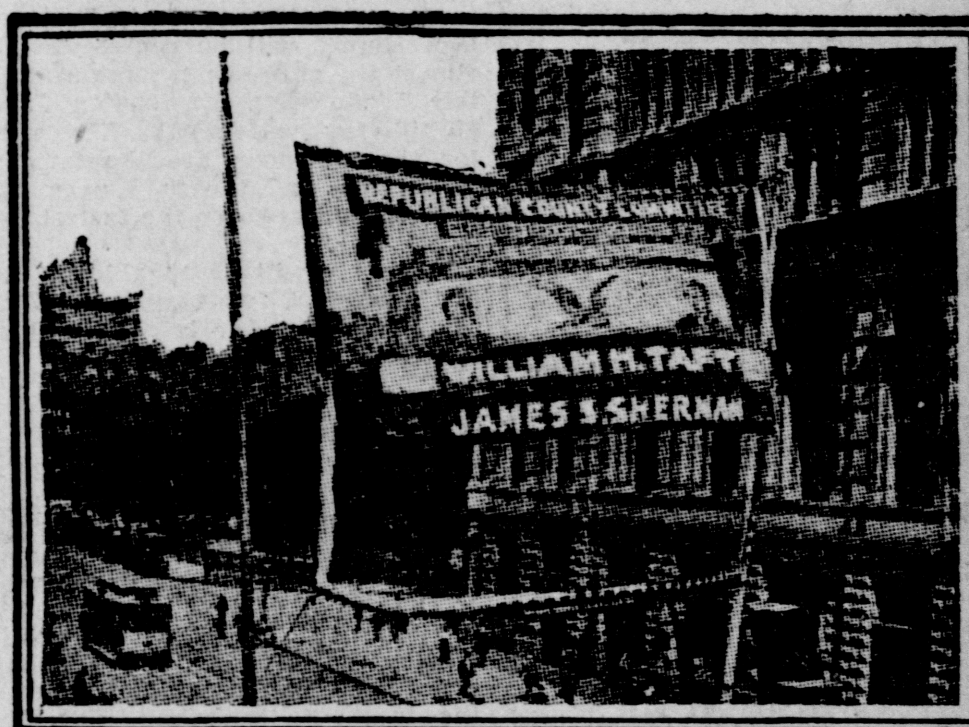

President John Elliott of the La Crosse baseball team has received notice from President Moll that the team presidents will hold a meeting Sunday, Oct. 4 at 1:30 in the Davidson hotel in Milwaukee. Probably the most important thing that will be considered will be the salary limit which has been bothering the directors for some time. The matter will be discussed and an effort be made to put the Wisconsin-Illinois league on a paying basis. Mr. Moll says that while the league attendance has increased 20 per cent this year and the Three-I and the Central association have decreased yet fairly that amount, which shows a favorable record, still the league is not yet on a paying basis. This will be the most important topic up for discussion. According to President Moll the only solution for the problem is to have the directors meet monthly and talk over matters and especially render a financial report. The teams cannot exist profitably under the old salaries, so they will all be lowered to the rate set by the directors at the coming meeting.

Madison Must Explain

President Moll has also notified Mr. Elliott that the protested games with Madison on Sept. 11 and 13 which La Crosse protested on account of Madison playing Conrad, are under consideration and that he has requested the Madison management to give reasons why the games should not be forfeited to La Crosse. If their reply is not satisfactory the games will undoubtedly go to La Crosse. This will bring La Crosse up to second place in the team standing for last season.

PARTY BANNERS IN NEW YORK

Specimens of rival campaign banners as they wave in turbulent New York city. The upper banner is for Taft and Sherman, and waves on Broadway. It is of enormous size, and shows not only a strenuous republican exhortation but also lithographs of the candidates themselves.

The lower banner is a Bryan and Kern banner, in front of Tammany hall, and shows the indorsement of the democratic party by Tammany hall. The banner is the same size as the republican banner, and built along similar lines. These are fair specimens of the campaign advertising which will immediately make its appearance in all of the larger cities of the country.

official bulletin Theodore Smith, who tried out with Toledo, has been released. Smith is a Tomah man and pitched with Eau Claire last year.

No Change of Class
The Wisconsin-Illinois league will not be able to get into class C until the year 1910, it is said, as the national officials refuse to take any state census and the only way for the league to get into the higher class is by the government's official census. There is not much probability of the Wisconsin-Illinois league taking in any larger towns. The Iowa league did this last season and went into a higher class as the Central association.

Twice Dismembered
Some years ago, says Representative Champ Clark, he was chatting with a number of senators from the south in the senate cloak room when Butler of South Carolina, whom Clark then saw for the first time, came in. After introduction to several new senators and representatives, Senator Butler exchanged a few remarks with them and then left the room.

One of the Mississippi senators turned to Clark, saying "To look at Butler you'll never suspect he wore a wooden leg, would you?" "No!" exclaimed Mr. Clark, surprised. "Fact!" continued the other. "Butler was an officer in the confederate army, as you know. It was not long before he had a leg shot off. Before leaving the hospital he was supplied with an artificial leg. Eventually he again went to the front, and this time a bit of shell blew his artificial member to pieces. Just think Clark," reflectively added the senator, "if Butler had been a union officer he would now be drawing a double pension from the government."—Philadelphia Ledger.

GALESVILLE FAIR OPENS WITH CROWD

WARMER WEATHER FOLLOWS MONDAY FROST

INDICATIONS FOR SUCCESS

Wednesday and Thursday Expected to Bring Thousands to Exposition in Trempealeau County City

GALESVILLE, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The fiftieth annual fair at Galesville opened with clear skies and there is every indication of good weather during the week. The heavy frost last night appears to have settled matters and Galesville is warming up under bright sunshine.

Yesterday the advance guard of fair people reached the city. The trains brought in not less than 200 people, mostly horsemen, showmen and fair followers generally. Every available foot of space on the ground has been taken up by privilege men. From the early indications the fiftieth fair will be considerably the biggest in the history of the society.

A pleasing bit of information was handed out by Superintendent of Speed Davis last night. He has every trotting and pacing number on the program filled nicely, with from six to ten starters. It will be no one, two, three affair when the horses get into the contests.

A large force of entry clerks are at work today handling the exhibits. Every department will be full and then some. The work of making entries will not be completed before midnight.

The Metropolitan Carnival company, which furnished all the entertainment for the Arcadia street fair, has moved to the Galesville fair. This concern has ten big shows and gives four free acts on the track. The carnival is a big thing alone.

Former residents of Galesville and vicinity are pouring into the town from distant states. The homecoming feature is an assured success.

Every Equity society in Trempealeau county will be represented by almost the entire membership at the fair Wednesday. Ex-Senator J. J. McGillivray will speak. The races for the afternoon are the farmers' green race and the 2:18 pace. The latter promises to be the fastest race of the fair.

Thursday will be the biggest day in the week. The attendance on that day if the weather is good will exceed 5,000.

AT HOME IN FIRES.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—"The people of this country are so accustomed to forest fires that they hardly feel at home unless they smell smoke," says W. R. Pullman, agent of the forest service in a report of the investigation of the fires in Minnesota. To this feeling of over-confidence he attributes the destruction of the town of Chisholm. The fires had been burning for nearly a week. Had precautions been taken, the town would not have been destroyed, he said.

RIDDER TO CLEAN HOUSE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The chair warmers, political leeches and easy job holders in the democratic national headquarters will lose their jobs, says Herman Ridder, the new treasurer. "I don't wish to criticize Haskell," he said, "but those who have been decorating chairs will lose their snap job during the present week."

condition, stage of water and future possibilities of the Ohio, and he has secured data of a most interesting nature.

Tomorrow the commissioner will go to St. Paul, taking the steamer La Crosse here for Wabasha and continuing aboard the Red Wing from that point, his purpose being to investigate transportation conditions on the Mississippi at the present unusually low stage, the existence of which presents excellent opportunities for observation.

Judge Reid expressed himself as delighted with the Black Beauty. "We ran 135 miles, from Hannibal to St. Louis, without stopping the engine," he said.

TO SUE TEDDY NOW OR ON RETIREMENT

A NEW HATCHET STORY.

MELETTE, S. D., Sept. 22.—Capt. Seth Bullock, aboard the Taft special today, told the story of Kermit Roosevelt's hunting trip. He says he had selected the last wild buffalo bull in the herd and arranged to kill it, as it was dangerous and must be disposed of. They hunted it out one day and Kermit leveled his rifle, then did not shoot, saying if the last wild buffalo must be killed, there must be some one else to do it.

Watch repairing is my business and I give careful, painstaking attention to it. I give especial attention to the repairing of fine watches—the kind of watches that need extra careful adjustment. I try to have my work give such satisfaction as will win the confidence of all who leave their watch repairing in my hands. I want you to feel that when you leave your watch with me for repairs the work will be done to the best of my ability and in a competent manner. It is my ambition to add to the reputation I think I have in a small measure already established, of doing honest, thorough watch repairing.

property and the circuit court allowed her $12 a month from the estate. The heirs at law—Lanham's children by a former wife—appealed on the ground that the Michigan marriage was illegal in Wisconsin. The court today reversed the decision.

Till on the Grill Again.

In the case of the State ex rel. Umbreit vs. Circuit Judge Helms of St. Croix county the attempt to compel further prosecution of the famous Dr. Till, of Somerset, barred by the court on the ground that the pleading was faulty and did not state a cause of action, the decision of the lower court was reversed, and the court will be compelled to try the appeal from justice court. Thus Till is again on the rack.

This case has to do with an attempt to force Judge Helms to reinstate on his docket the case of the plaster doctor, who secured the quashing of the prosecution under which, in justice court, he had been fined $100 and costs for practicing medicine without a license. This action had been taken by Judge Helms because the complaint did not state that Till was using drugs. Till having a license to practice osteopathy. The attorney general allowed Umbreit to file a petition to the supreme court to exercise its constitutional "superinducing power" over inferior courts and compel the reinstatement of the case, which must now be done.

TELLS OF OLD PLOT TO SLAY LOUIS NAPOLEON

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—After a silence of half a century, Comte Camille de Rugio, an Italian nobleman, today revealed the details of a plot to assassinate Emperor Louis Napoleon and the empress, in Paris in 1858, when 10 were killed and 150 wounded. He says he threw one of three bombs. He was traced here by Italian journalists on account of a letter written when the statue Felice Orsini was recently unveiled. He declares that the Italian statesman, Francesco Crispi, threw a bomb. He thinks the act high patriotism.

SHOT IN FOOT BY SALEM MARSHALL

WILLIAM RHYNA TRIED TO RUN AWAY

BEEN BEGGING ON STREET

Asks Marshal to Permit Him to Go His Way and Offers to Bind Up Own Wound

After being shot in the foot by Marshal Emil Wenzel of West Salem, while attempting to escape arrest, a man giving his name as William Rhyna was brought to this city, pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy in county court this morning and received a sentence to serve 20 days in the county jail.

Rhyna, together with two or three other men, had been begging around the streets of West Salem yesterday and had accumulated a good sized "jag" by evening. Marshal Wenzel had been notified and started out to arrest them. Rhyna was found about the streets and was started towards the station. When but a short distance away he jerked from the officer and ran up an alley. He failed to heed the commands of the officer to halt and was subsequently shot, the bullet taking effect in his right foot.

Dr. P. A. Wakefield of West Salem dressed the wound, but the bullet still remains in his foot and in all probability it will necessitate the use of the X-ray to locate it.

Whether or not he is a common vagrant or one of a band of more desperate crooks is not known, but when arrested he told the officer that if he would give him his shoe and let him go out of town he would attend to the dressing of the wound, and seemed anxious to get away.

SHERMAN & KERN MEET IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Candidates Sherman and Kern met this morning in the lobby of the Auditorium hotel. They shook hands and exchanged greetings. They were introduced by Senator Smith of Michigan. Sherman invited Kern to visit him in Utica, and "bring Mrs. Kern along too." Sherman left for Danville, Ill., the home of Cannon, where he will speak tonight. Kern went to Kalamazoo, where he speaks. In discussing the finding of the railroad pass made out to him, he said, the wallet was taken by a pickpocket. The papers and wallet were sent to him at Baltimore, but the pass and a $20 bill were missing.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 22.—A warrant, charging Louis R. Webb with starting the forest fire which swept 20,000 acres in northern California, was issued by the federal court here. It charges that Webb has been setting fires for some time to prepare grazing ground for deer.

TO FIGHT RETIREMENT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—Orders were issued today by General Hall, calling the retiring board together this afternoon at the Washington barracks to consider the case of Col. Wm. F. Stewart, who will be given a physical examination. Upon their report, taken with the report of the surgeon at Fort Huachuca, who decided that Stewart was unable to stand the strain of a 90 mile horseback ride, will depend the judgment of the board concerning his retirement.

Stewart will be permitted to introduce his general health record which is said to be very good. He will endeavor to show that if his heart is affected, it is the effect of the life at Fort Grant, where he was sent on the order of the president. Stewart's brother, who is here to help fight the case, says that when he was sent there his health was excellent. The heat, loneliness of the place and the impossibility to get good food is the cause of his bad health.

FUNERAL OF CHILD

The funeral of the 14-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonah Franz, 312 South Front street, who died Saturday from cholera infantum, was held yesterday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Andreas officiated. Interment was made in the Oak Grove cemetery with Mrs. Theodore Mannstedt in charge.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—A copious rain has broken the drought in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and checked the forest fires which have been causing great damage.

S.S.S. NATURE'S PERFECT TONIC

There is scarcely any one, no matter how vigorous and healthy, who does not need a tonic sometimes. Little physical irregularities upset the system, the appetite fails, digestion is poor, the body feels tired and worn out, and other unpleasant symptoms give warning that the system is disordered and needs assistance to ward off, perhaps, some serious sickness or ailment. S. S. S. is recognized everywhere as the best of all tonics, nature's medicine, made entirely of healing, cleansing, invigorating roots and herbs, a systemic remedy without an equal. S. S. S. has the additional value of being the greatest of all blood purifiers. It re-establishes the healthy circulation of the blood, rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling, improves the appetite and digestion, and brings about a return of health to those whose systems have been weakened or depleted. S. S. S. acts more promptly and pleasantly than any other medicine, and those who are run down in health should commence its use at once. It will thoroughly purify the blood and tone up the system. S. S. S. is admirably suited for a systemic remedy because it is free from minerals; it may be used without harmful results by persons of any age, and no unpleasant effects ever follow.

BRIDGE IS ONCE MORE TO BE USED

INTER-STATE BRIDGE OPENS AFTER TWO YEARS

WAS TOPPLED OVER BY BOAT

And After Two Years of Work it Has at Last Been Raised and Placed in Condition for Traffic

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 29.—The Interstate bridge between Superior and Duluth is actually in use. After months of promising the bridge company has, at last, permitted the structure to again be put in use. Street cars ran over it Monday for the first time in over two years. It was early on the morning of Aug. 11, 1906, that the steamer Troy hit the big draw-span and toppled it into the channel. Since that time steam ferries and a street car ferry have served as a poor substitute. The traffic between the two cities had become enormous. As high as 10,000 fares were paid between them some days, while the bridge was out of commission, the bulk of the people going via the little old tug that connected the ends of the two car lines. The Pacific was the first boat to navigate all the year round in the Superior-Duluth harbor. She made that record last winter serving the street car going public.

Now that the bridge is in good working order plans will go ahead for the connecting up of railway tracks over the bridge so that traffic congestion between the cities will be still further relieved. It is the question of getting tracks to the bridge that has caused the bitter fight between the Soo and the Great Northern and Northern Pacific in this city. That question is still pending before the state railroad commission.

IOWA LEGISLATURE MAY BE DEMOCRATIC

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 29.—When it is considered that eighteen republican members came to the last legislature on a majority of less than 150 votes, the significance of the present republican factional fight over senatorial nomination in connection with the regular November election may be appreciated.

The possibility of a democratic legislature is more fully realized when it is known that the changing of a single precinct in nearly forty legislative districts would elect democratic members to the legislature.

With such a gain, and holding what they already have, the democrats could overwhelmingly control the thirty-third general assembly this winter.

The republican factional fight over selecting a nominee for the United States senate to stand for election before the legislature this winter daily gives evidence of increasing dissatisfaction and probability of enlarged vote for democratic legislative nominees.

PATSY MADDEN IS WANTED BY POLICE

ROCHESTER, Minn., Sept. 29.—Patsy Madden, who was arrested in this city on a charge of stealing a revolver from a second hand store, and who was given a sentence of 30 days in the county jail, is wanted at Waseca and if reports be true Madden is a rara avis in the way of a jail bird.

Before his conviction, the police became convinced that Madden was the man who assaulted a Waseca physician and broke jail there after being arrested for that offense. A description of the man wanted was obtained from the Waseca authorities, and it was then declared to be a "clinch" that the man in jail here was the man wanted at Waseca on the charge of committing a deadly assault.

However, Madden is now obliged to serve thirty days in the jail here, at the expiration of which period the authorities of Waseca will take him into custody as soon as he walks out of the Rochester jail.

If there is anything busier than idle curiosity, will some one please chase it across the stage.

THOUSANDS IN ATTENDANCE

Eighteen Bands Have Been Hired and at Least 4,000 Delegates Are Expected

Eighteen bands and 4,000 delegates participated and an equal number turned out to witness the spectacle. The demonstration was undoubtedly the largest ever seen in this city. Sunday afternoon, Rev. Placidus Ochse of Altus, Ark., delivered an address at St. Mary's school hall, on "The American Pilgrimage to Rome." Monday evening a banquet was served to a thousand people at St. Mary's school hall. The business sessions of the association opened in this city Monday morning.

SPECIAL OFFER TO CONTESTANTS

EACH and every contestant in the Tribune Tony Pony contest who brings in a NEW subscriber to the La Crosse Daily Tribune is entitled to one suggestion for the name of the first of the Tribune's Ponies. Every new subscriber brought in by a contestant is good for a suggestion. If you bring in ten NEW subscribers you will get ten suggestions. Names suggested must all be in the office by 8:00 o'clock Saturday night, October 3rd. The name best suited will be chosen by a committee of three non-interested judges outside the Tribune office and the boy or girl who suggested the winning name will be given 5,000 extra votes. A second prize of 2,500 votes will be given and a third of 1,000 extra votes will also be given. These prize votes are in addition to votes regularly issued to new subscribers paid in advance.

Tribune's Mammoth Popular Voting Contest.

TO CONTEST MANAGER:

I suggest the name of _____ as the name for the first of the Shetland ponies received by the Tribune in this contest.

Name _____

District No. _____

Address _____

This suggestion only good when accompanied by a NEW subscriber to the Daily Tribune.

INTEREST IN THE TRIBUNE'S SHETLAND PONY CONTEST IS INCREASING EACH DAY

In All Probability The 100,000 Vote Mark Will Have Been Reached Before The Close Of The Contest

PONY NAMING CONTEST WITH 1 WEEK TO RUN IS BRINGING IN MANY NEW NAMES DAILY

Important Changes in Standing Today—No One is Sure of First Place for Tomorrow—Work and the Pony is Yours.

If the Tribune was giving away hundreds of Shetland Ponies and outfits instead of four, there would be names enough to go around in the list that has already been furnished by contestants interested in the Pony Naming Contest. The judges who make the awards next Saturday night will indeed be required to use their best judgment before deciding whose suggestion shall receive first prize, and whose second, and whose third. There are many names, to be sure, but more are coming in every hour, and when the Pony Naming Contest closes next Saturday night there will be many hundreds of names from which the judges must select the names they like best.

Although only six suggestions can win, these six may be either the first or the last to be offered in the Pony Naming Contest. If two contestants suggest the same name and it is chosen, the contestants will each receive the number of votes fixed as the prize. First prize is 5,000 votes, second prize 2,500 and third prize 1,000 votes, in addition to the votes regularly allowed for advance payments on new subscriptions.

The contestants in every district are working hard, and the third week of the Shetland Pony Contest starts off with the race a good one and the interest increasing every day. Some new contestants' names will also be noticed in the list, and these have as good a chance as the older contestants if they will apply themselves industriously to the work of securing new subscriptions and payments on old or new accounts. The standing as published below, showing the count up to yesterday, reveals several important changes in the relative positions of the contestants, showing that a little work will result in a big advance for any contestant.

Many of the contestants have had rides behind the little pony which is to be seen every day at the Tribune office. Monday the pretty little rigs were kept going almost all day, up and down the streets, and many little girls and boys rode behind the little animal, enjoying the easy-riding, rubber-tired buggy, and reveling in the thoughts of the good times they will have if they win the pony or one of the four which are to be given away.

There is no sting to the Tribune Shetland Pony Contest. The contestants who do not win ponies will be paid one-tenth, or ten per cent commission upon all their collections on new subscriptions, and this will give to non-winners some return for their work in securing new subscriptions and votes. There is fun just in being in the contest, and the little folks are getting more and more interested as the end of the contest draws nearer.

Throughout the contest, subscribers who commence taking the paper after the beginning of the race will be regarded as "new subscribers" until the end of the contest and money paid on such subscriptions will bring as many votes as if it were all paid in the beginning on a new subscription.

This is the third week of the Shetland Pony Contest, and the number of new subscribers added to the Tribune list already is wonderful. This shows that the little folks, both in La Crosse and outside, are hard at work with the set purpose of winning. The Pony Naming Contest will end next Saturday night and every contestant who brings in a new subscription will be given the right to make a suggestion for each new name. Think of the best name you can conceive of for the pony; then fill out the blank and bring it to the Tribune office with a new subscription. This is a fine way to get extra votes in addition to those given for new subscriptions, and may help someone to win a pony.

Contestants are urged to remember that ballots out of the papers will not be counted after the expiration date printed on the ballot. A number of ballots had to be thrown out yesterday on that account. Some of the contestants trim the coupons very roughly and there is danger of a miscount when this is the case. Be careful, in cutting the coupons, to cut along the broad black line, leaving the expiration date visible, for coupons without this date cannot be counted.

Below will be found the standing of the contestants in the various districts, up to yesterday at 9 a. m.

PERIL FROM THIRD PARTIES

(Leslie's Weekly.)

Since the civil war the "third" parties have been the prohibitionists, who appeared in 1872, and who have participated in every presidential canvass since then, and who will show a marked increase in their vote this year; the Greenbackers, who were with us in 1876, and 1884; the Union Laborists, who figured in 1888; the Populists, who rolled up a popular vote of over one million, and an electoral vote of twenty-one, for General James B. Weaver in 1892, and who are with us yet; the Gold Democrats, of the canvass of 1896; and the Socialists, who made their advent in 1896, and who are here still. In 1884 the prohibitionists were a decisive factor. The 25,000 votes which they cast for their presidential candidate, St. John, in New York, in that year, two-thirds or three-fourths of which were drawn from the Republicans, defeated Blaine and made Cleveland president. As a separate organization, and as an ally of the Democrats in many western states the Populists hit the Republicans a hard blow in 1892.

As there are more "third" parties in 1908 than ever before, it is possible that some of them may influence the general result.

An old man once visited one of his daughters who had antismacassar on the backs of all the chairs. While sitting by the window the old man caught sight of the parson coming to visit Mary, and as the latter went to open the door the old man snatched all the antismacassars and threw them under the sofa. After the parson had gone he said to Mary: "Oh, Mary, I am glad I was able to get all your washing out of the way before the parson came in."

There is a lot of difference between taking faith as a shield in battle and as a cloak in business.

A Reasonable Argument.

Attendant at Museum—Sir, you know very well that dogs are not admitted here.

Visitor—He isn't my dog.

Attendant—But it followed you in.

Visitor—Well, so did you.

BRYAN ROOSEVELT DUEL INFLUENCE DECIDING ELECTION

to Roosevelt and the pre-destined successor to the task of carrying these policies to conclusion. Mr. Taft insisted that he was not only the manifest but the designated heir.

So everything centered about the figure of Roosevelt; and it was only to be expected that in due time there would be departure from the mild manners and suave exchanges with which the hostilities opened.

Mr. Taft has the backing of Roosevelt. Mr. Bryan has at least the advantage represented by the fact that he is fighting for himself; that he is known to the country and that there is no chance for misunderstanding about the authority with which he speaks. Mr. Bryan is all there has been to the democratic campaign to date; he will be the entire campaign to the end. Mr. Roosevelt has been in much the like fashion the greater part of the republican campaign; and it becomes apparent that he will not be a decreasing figure as the time passes.

The politicians all give it up. They don't know. They refuse to commit themselves. For publication they pretend confidence according to the demands of their political affiliation. But privately they tell you that they don't know anything about it except that they are dead certain nobody knows anything about it.

Veteran Discusses Campaign.

"I never saw such a strange condition of public opinion," said a republican national committeeman, a veteran of five national campaigns. "I had a good deal to do with the fight of 1892; more with that of 1896; and still more with each one since. I thought I knew something about gauging the public mind; but I don't."

"The other day out in my state a neighbor's chauffeur was bringing home the auto at night. A half-drunken man by the wayside managed to get himself convinced that the machine tried to run him down. He went to the nearest justice, swore out a warrant, and had the driver arrested."

"My neighbor's wife became hysterical when she heard of it. That man had been in the family's employ for many years; had always been safe, reliable and honest. But he had been arrested. She was sure he had gone the way of all chauffeurs; she had read in the papers that they were a reckless lot, anyhow; and now she would have nothing but John must be discharged without waiting for further developments."

"John was discharged, and the good lady felt rather better. She had discharged her duty to society."

"Then the trial came on, and it developed that the chauffeur not only was not guilty of anything wrong, but that in order to avoid injuring the complainant he had taken a dangerous chance. He was dismissed, and the complainant was resolutely reprimanded."

"That's the way the inflamed public opinion of the present is looking upon public questions. Let it be intimated that some man or candidate or party has been discreditably involved somewhere and everybody is ready to believe it. No need for evidence or trial. It must be true because 'chauffeurs—and public men—are a bad lot, anyhow,' as my neighbor's wife would put it."

"The public is in a frame of mind right now to discharge somebody. But I am not at all certain that it's indignation will result in action before the trial. We are going to have the trial in the next six weeks, and it is going to be an exciting one. If we keep on as we have been going lately, I don't know whether the people will get time to cool off and think it over before they go to vote and if they don't do that, I'm sure I don't know what result may be looked for at the polls."

Parties More Reckless

That veteran politician's illustration presented the whole situation of the campaign, at this stage. Nobody knows what the strange condition of public opinion portends. For one thing, it is expected that there will be more recklessness of party than ever before. Congressmen who have had rock-ribbed districts will be defeated. Legislatures will turn up in control of the opposition party in several states where the "ins" have been in so long that a change will look like revolution. States will go republican which even so good a claim agent as Mr. Hitch-

HERO OF 8 WARS, WHO HAS SERVED UNDER 4 FLAGS

MAJOR P. J. H. FARRELL.

Major P. J. H. Farrell, the new president of the army of the Philippines, has one of the most unique records that any soldier in the world can show. He has been in "only eight" wars, in command of men. He has served with distinction under four flags and is yet only 49 years old. Wherever there has been wild work in the past score of years could be found this dauntless challenger of fate. Since peace has befallen the world in the last few years he has withdrawn from his martial profession and become a surgeon. He is now recognized as an authority in his new field and is professor of military medicine and surgery at the Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery.

Although an Englishman by birth, he has twice served under the Stars and Stripes, once in the China expedition for the relief of Peking, and again throughout the Philippine campaign. It was in the latter that he rendered his most distinguished service.

Fritons, equipped with umbrellas and handbooks of ready-to-use English-German conversation, would be judiciously distributed throughout the war lord's empire as rapidly as railway tickets could be punched. And as the dazed kaiser watched his Kadonfenfurter being led away in 10,000 docile squads up the Alps, over the Russian frontier, and down into the salt sea, Anglo-Saxon supremacy would be guaranteed for another generation.

HUGHES TO LEAVE ON SPECIAL TRAIN

Later details received by County Chairman Otto Bosshard on the visit of Gov. Hughes to La Crosse has made it necessary to change the time of the latter's address here. He will arrive at 8:15 on the C. B. & Q., and will be escorted immediately to the auditorium, the address to begin at 8:30. The talk will last about an hour, after which Gov. Hughes will leave on a special train for Winona, where he will address a large audience in the afternoon. From there he will go to St. Paul, where he will address a meeting in the evening. After making this address he will start west, going into the Dakotas, Oklahoma and then back to the east.

La Crosse is the only Wisconsin city in which Gov. Hughes will talk.

A Pound of Meat.

"Didn't I tell ye to feed that cat a pound of meat every day until ye had her fat?" demanded an Irish shopkeeper, nodding toward a sickly, emaciated cat that was slinking through the store.

"Ye did that," replied his assistant, "an' I've just been after feedin' her a pound of meat this very minute."

"Faith an' I don't believe ye. Bring me the scales."

The poor cat was lifted into the scales. They balanced at exactly one pound.

"There!" exclaimed the assistant triumphantly. "Didn't I tell ye she'd had her pound of meat?"

"That's right," admitted the boss, scratching his head. "That's yer pound of meat all right. But"—suddenly looking up—"where the devil is the cat?"—Everybody's Magazine.

LEWD WOMEN GIVEN LIBERTY

The nine lewd women picked up at the various road houses by the sheriff on his recent raid were all dismissed in county court yesterday morning upon motion of the district attorney.

The cause is presumed to be "lack of evidence."

A total-abstinence preacher, pointing to a man who was leaning against a lamp post in a somewhat inebriated condition, addressed his audience in the following terms: "Look, my friends, I ask you, on this degraded specimen of humanity, his mouth stretching across the wide desolation of his face, a fountain of falsehood and a sepulchre of rum!"

PRESIDENT OF CHICAGO CITY RAILWAY

T. E. MITTEN

Thomas Eugene Mitten, president of the Chicago City railway, and one of the admitted experts in the street traction matters of America, is another living testimonial to American opportunity. Forty-three years ago Mr. Mitten was an English baby, without endowment or family position. When he was 15 years old he emigrated to the United States and worked four years on a farm. By day he plowed the fields and by night he learned telegraphy. He turned from the farm to the railroad and rapidly rose from freight and ticket agent to train dispatcher, then to trainmaster, then to claim adjuster, then to superintendent. While he was in Colorado he turned his attention to street railway matters, constructing several electric suburban lines, which proved so profitable that they definitely established Mr. Mitten's reputation as a street railroad man. Soon he was managing the Milwaukee street railways, then he was general superintendent of the street railways in Buffalo and finally he landed in the vice presidency of the Chicago City railway in 1905. A few months later, when the company was reorganized, Mr. Mitten became president and general manager.

Twenty-eight years ago he was a farm hand without money or influential friends. Today he is one of the commercial leaders of the United States.

Mr. Mitten has succeeded because he has placed business ahead of pleasure. He is a business man first, last and all the time and around his business centers his main interests in life. He is not a politician and confines his activities simply and solely to the conduct of street railways, with which he is familiar down to the last detail.

NAME EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE $500 BETTER THAN LAST YEAR

"One La Follette Man, One Connor Man, and Three Edmonds Men" Comprises the Personnel Although Still Three Months to Hear from the Receipts up to Date Have Increased $500

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 29.—Arthur Lambeck of this city yesterday was appointed secretary of the republican state committee by Chairman Edmonds. Mr. Lambeck has been identified with Wisconsin politics for the past few years, having been secretary of the McGovern committee and also secretary to Senator Isaac Stephenson.

Executive Committee. Chairman Edmonds also announced the executive committee of the state committee for the campaign as follows: Ex-Senator C. W. Thayer, Ripon; Dr. L. A. Wright, Columbus; Carl D. Jackson, Oshkosh; Max Sells, Florence, and Dr. W. A. Jones, Oconomowoc.

"One La Follette man, one Connor man and three Edmonds men," was the comment of a veteran politician when he heard the names of the members of this committee. Others would probably divide the committee today getting in touch with the nabobs in which event the division would be three to two, Dr. Wright, Max Sells and Dr. Jones being the halfbreeds.

Perry C. Wilder, Evansville, has again been selected vice chairman of the committee.

Chairman Edmonds is in Chicago today getting in touch with the national committee and also securing a head on what to expect for Wisconsin in the way of speakers.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—The receipts of the state insurance department have been more during the past year than ever before. Although three months remain before the end of the year, the receipts this year already exceed the money collected last year by over $500. In spite of the withdrawal of a score of life insurance companies from the state there has been no falling off in the work of insurance companies in the state and in ten years the receipts of the department have nearly trebled.

In 1898 the department received $239,774.43 and with three months missing there has already been collected to September 28 the sum of $664,284.61. Every year has seen an increase in receipts as shown by the following table:

1898	$239,774.43
1899	388,448.19
1900	431,318.87
1901	435,792.46
1902	468,177.29
1903	504,885.09
1904	562,685.00
1905	572,778.95
1906	620,438.03
1907	663,723.98
1908, to Sept. 28	664,284.61

Mr. Beedle is greatly encouraged with the work of the department during the past year.

CHARGES HIS WIFE WITH BLACKMAIL

WAUKESHA, Wis., Sept. 29.—Blackmail is charged in the answer of Frank Olson, a prominent resident of Summit, to the divorce complaint of Nellie Olson.

The answer asserts that the plaintiff commenced a divorce action January last, but that it was never brought to the attention of the court except to secure an order for attorney's fees and suit money. The present suit, the defendant alleges, is an attempt to blackmail him.

The couple was married in 1889 and has one son, Earl, aged 17. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant drove her from the house and several times threatened to take her life with a shot gun. She also alleges that he beat her father who is old and decrepit.

Olson denies the charges and avers that the plaintiff refused to prepare his meals or perform her other household duties.

Judge Griswold ordered the defendant to pay the plaintiff $25 attorney's fees and $15 suit money.

JOINING THE PROCESSION

Local telephone companies scattered throughout the State are finding that in union there is strength. This is shown by the large number of such concerns which are entering into connecting contracts with the Wisconsin Telephone Company. A list recently published showed that within a few weeks thirteen companies had made such arrangements in order to get the benefits which come through affiliation with a telephone system covering the entire state and with long distance facilities extending throughout the country. The liberal policy of the Wisconsin Company in this matter is doing much to give Wisconsin people the benefit of general intercommunication over the telephone wires. This policy is one which should be encouraged, and it is one, it is believed, which will find increasing favor as its possibilities become more generally recognized.

This method of conducting the telephone business gives assurance that every enterprising group of farmers or local telephone association may have not only neighborhood service but may get for themselves all the facilities which are at the command of dwellers in large towns and cities.

LA FRANCE SAGE FOR WOMEN

Very often we hear women say that their shoe troubles would be over if they could find a shoe that would look as well in daily wear as it does when they first see it and try it on in the store.

We advise every woman who has this feeling to find out about La France shoes. This shoe is not only one of unusual beauty and general merit, but it keeps its lines and looks shapely, graceful and beautiful long after ordinary shoes present a wrinkled, rundown and generally disreputable appearance.

The reason for this is in the quality of the materials used and the extremely skillful, workmanlike manner in which they are put together.

Every woman who sees these shoes and tries them on immediately becomes keenly interested in them. We would like to have you come in and let us interest you.

Are you troubled with foot discomfort? If so, ask to see the La France Flexible Welt—they are something new in an extremely elastic leather sole which adapts itself to every movement of the foot, and affords an amount of ease and comfort found in no other model.

DAILY MARKETS

MARKET IS QUIET DURING COLD SPELL

TOKAY GRAPES DECLINE 25 CENTS TODAY

RAIN IS DOING GOOD WORK

End of Drought Good Thing for the Pastures, but Continuance of Warm Weather Is Needed

The market continues quiet this morning, the only changes noted being Tokay grapes, which took a fall of 25c, from $1.75 to $1.50.

The end of the period of drouth aided the farmers in many ways and has rejuvenated the dying pastures, but the farmers would be able to accomplish better results if the weather would continue warm for a time.

Clement Curtis Co.: The price of wheat depends upon the attitude of London and any decline in that market will be followed here in our stocks are becoming uncomfortably large for local enthusiasm.

FOUR MILWAUKEE SALOONS GO DRY

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 29.—The common council stole a march on four saloon keepers, who with the aid of Attorney S. W. Dalberg, had obtained an injunction from Court Commissioner Adolph Kanneberg, restraining members of the license committee from presenting an adverse report on their applications for licenses.

The five members of the committee were served with the legal papers but no sooner had the aldermen been informed of this action when it was moved to have the applications of the four saloon keepers taken from the license committee for immediate action. This was done, and with an almost unanimous vote, the council rejected the application.

The licenses denied were those of John Obermeyer, 419 First street; Alfred Johnston, 141 Second street; Fred Dupuis, 481 East Water street, and Ben Ratkowski, 705 KiKnickinnic avenue.

FLAMES ROUTE FAMILIES

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Twelve families were driven from their homes by a flat building fire today, said to be caused by a burglar. It started in a three story frame flat at daylight and the families had difficulty in escaping. It spread to two other flat buildings and all were destroyed. Across the street was the Church of the Immaculate Conception and monastery. The priests, believing the fire would spread, rushed to the street. A fireman was severely hurt.

COUNTRY'S BANNER COUNTY CLERK

ALVAH HOWARD MARTIN.

Every county has a county clerk, but there is only one Alvah Howard Martin. In the ordinary course of political events county clerkships are not filled by the most influential, the most prominent and the wealthiest members of a community. Norfolk county, Va., is an exception.

Alvah Howard Martin, who has been county clerk of Norfolk county, Va., for 28 consecutive years, is one of the leading men of the old Dominion. He is 50 years of age, and more than half his life has been spent in this county clerkship of the richest county in Virginia. In fact, he has made county clerkship his life profession, and in connection with this office and his family patrimony and his own natural talent, he has made himself perhaps the biggest republican in Virginia.

WHAT BRYAN MUST DO TO BE ELECTED

strength for 1908. To this southern field may be added the new state of Oklahoma with its seven votes, making a total nucleus of 147.

Bryan's Early Strength.

The next states to which Mr. Bryan might logically expect to lay title would probably be those states which he carried in 1900, but which Mr. Parker failed to hold in 1904. This class includes five states, which are shaded with the light double lines, and includes Missouri, Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Nevada, with a total of 32 votes. Having held the Parker vote, having taken Oklahoma and having regained those Bryan states of 1900 which Parker lost in 1904, Mr. Bryan would then have a total of 173 votes or 69 short of an electoral majority and election.

The next states to which the logician might expect to turn in seeking additional electoral votes for the democratic nominee would be those states which Mr. Bryan carried when he ran the first time, in 1896, but which he himself lost in 1900 and which Mr. Parker did not regain in 1904. This field includes six states, namely, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, with a total of 33 electoral votes. It is only fair to state in this connection, however, that these six western states, which flocked to the Bryan standard on his first campaign, were undoubtedly attracted by the free silver plank, which was then the Bryan shibboleth. Now if Mr. Bryan has held the Parker vote of 1904, regained the states which he carried in 1900, but which Parker lost in 1904 and also regained those states which he himself carried in 1900 but which both he and Mr. Parker lost in subsequent campaigns, he will have a total of 213 votes, including always the seven from the newly created state of Oklahoma.

Still 29 Short.

This, then, is the situation which the map shows: When the democrats carry every state which Parker carried in 1904, which Bryan carried in 1900, and which Bryan carried in 1896, together with the newly created state of Oklahoma, they will have secured a total of 213 electoral votes, and they will still be 29 votes shy of an election and a victory.

It is evident, therefore, that if Bryan is to win, the democrats must go back beyond the campaigns of the past 12 years and secure more strength from some state or states which they carried in 1892, 16 years ago, when they elected President Cleveland, the last man of their party faith to enter the White house. In other words, turning again to the map, if Bryan is to win, after holding the entire democratic strength of the past 12 years, he must secure 29 votes from those states which are left unshaded, and which have been republican ever since the first election of President McKinley.

This recapitulation in every instance takes no cognizance of split electoral votes, but is based on a majority of the electoral vote of each state in each instance.

How He Can Win

How, then, can Mr. Bryan's election be brought about by his friends, and how can his defeat be encompassed by his enemies?

In the first place, the state of New York, all by itself, with its sovereign 39 electoral votes, could determine the election. It went for Cleveland in 1892, but has been republican ever since. If Bryan can carry New York he can win.

The second surmise upon which to base a possibility of democratic victory necessarily includes the state of Indiana, in which democracy has made a strong fight for recognition by nominating a vice president from that commonwealth, after the republican party refused to recognize the state in the republican national convention. If Bryan and Kern can carry Indiana with its 15 votes, they will then be but 14 votes shy of an election. California and Oregon combined would turn the trick. Michigan alone would turn the trick. Massachusetts alone would turn the trick with two to spare. West Virginia and Connecticut would just balance the scales.

Some Other Possibilities

In the meantime it must be noted that old Pennsylvania, with her 34 votes, if carried by Bryan, would all by itself turn the tide of battle. But Pennsylvania was not democratic even in the landslide of 1892. Neither was Massachusetts. Neither was Oregon.

It is interesting to note that with the 213 votes representing the combined Bryan and Parker strength of past years, Mr. Bryan, although 29 votes shy of an election, will have carried 25 states to 21 for his opponent, and he will have carried two-thirds of the territorial area of the country to one-third of the territory, he could also carry those other states which went democratic in 1892, he would have an additional 138 votes, coming from California, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, part of Michigan, New Jersey, New Hampshire, part of North Dakota, part of Ohio, West Virginia and Wisconsin. He would then have a total of 351 electoral votes, or 15 more than was goven to Roosevelt in his overwhelming victory of 1904.

In the final analysis, therefore, the statistician will give Mr. Bryan a nucleus of 141 in the solid south, plus seven from the new state of Oklahoma, a total of 148. The statistician thus will leave him 94 votes shy of an election, and will require him to carry 11 additional states, which he himself carried in his two previous canvasses, and he will still be required to gain 29 votes from admittedly republican territory.

Conflicting Claims

How can he do it. Democratic national committeemen will tell you he can do it in Indiana, in Ohio, in Illinois, West Virginia, in Connecticut, in New York, if not in Wisconsin and Minnesota as well.

Republican national committeemen will tell you that he can never break into the virgin territory represented by pure white on the map, and in addition that he can never regain those states which he carried in 1900 and in 1896, which Mr. Parker lost to democracy in 1904.

THE MOST EXPENSIVE AND MOST MAGNIFICENT CLUBHOUSE IN THE WORLD

The Royal Automobile club of London proposes to erect a new automobile club house which will cost $1,000,000, on the site of the old office in London. For 220 feet its fine stone frontage will extend along Pall Mall. With a depth of 130 feet to the park and a height of 80 feet its magnitude will dwarf even the big proportions of the Carlton club adjoining, while the beauty of its architecture will add much to Pall Mall's artistic aspect. In one of the basements will be a magnificent swimming bath nearly 100 feet in length. The club house will be the most extensive, the most artistic and the most costly ever erected in the world.

EMERGENCY PLAN MONEY IS HERE

Although there is every reason to believe the new bank notes issued under the provisions of the Aldrich-Vreeland act will be just as scarce as the old ones, some of them at last have reached La Crosse and are in circulation here. The new paper is attracting considerable attention.

Many people have passed the new paper over without noticing the difference, for the change is comparatively slight. Instead of bearing the words "Secured by United States bonds deposited with the treasurer of the United States," it is engraved "Secured by United States bonds or other securities." To make this change is said to have cost the government $250,000.

The greenback is somewhat different in design than the old, the center being devoted to a circular picture over two inches in diameter of "The Landing of the Pilgrims." Aside from the figure, denoting the denomination in each of the four corners the $5 on the greenback slide bears only the picture, information of what the paper is receivable for and the date of the issue on either side of the circle. Practically the only ones that have been seen here are of the series of 1902.

And with all the talk about currency legislation that this country has been forced to listen to for the last twelve or fifteen years, it is interesting to know that the new notes mark the first change in the form of the national currency for twenty-six years. At that the change affects only the one class of notes. The "greenbacks," the name dating back beyond the memory of most persons, are the oldest form of currency now in existence. All national currency is popularly known, or affectionately remembered as "greenbacks," but, strictly speaking, however, the name belongs to that class of notes which have back of them only the credit of the government. They are merely secured promises to pay.
